

Number of GM field trials in Europe in decline

The number of applications for experimental field trials with GM plants in Europe is steadily decreasing, new figures show. The only exception is Spain, where major companies are carrying out a series of field trials.

View the original article here: Number of GM field trials in Europe in decline – FarmersWeekly