

Blood test due for postpartum depression?

A simple blood test soon may be able to predict which new mothers will suffer from postpartum depression, a condition that affects approximately 1 in every 7 women who give birth.

View the original article here: Blood test due for postpartum depression?