

A turning point for GM crops in the EU?

It's not a big secret that many Europeans are afraid of new, cutting-edge technologies. Microbiologist Dr. Anne Glover, the very first EU Science Adviser, affirmed this – although she expressed it in a rather more diplomatic way in an interview with the journal Science. However, there is reason for hope that things are about to change.

View the original article here: A Turning Point for GM Crops in the EU?, RealClearWorld – The ...