

Italy: GMO field to be destroyed after being authorized 14 years ago

An experimental field of GMO plants, authorized in 1998 in Italy, is going to be destroyed during the next few days (starting from 12 June 2012) after an anti-GMO organisation wrote a letter of protest to both the Italian departments of agriculture and environment, asserting that no further authorisation had been obtained by the researchers in 2009, after they asked for it.

View the original article here: Italy: GMO field to be destroyed after being authorized 14 years ago