

“Friendly” stem cells help others in times of stress?

Stanford postdoctoral scholar and cancer researcher Bikul Das, PhD, published some interesting findings in Stem Cells this morning regarding the behavior of – you guessed it – stem cells.

View the original article here: “Friendly” stem cells help others in times of stress? – Scope \(blog\)