

Regulation of telomerase in stem cells and cancer cells

Scientists at the Max Planck Institute of Immunobiology and Epigenetics in Freiburg have gained important insights for stem cell research which are also applicable to human tumours and could lead to the development of new treatments.

View the original article here: Regulation of Telomerase in Stem Cells and Cancer Cells – Science Daily \(press release\)