

GM canola contamination leads to court showdown

Australia's system of organic certification will come under intense scrutiny when two neighbouring farmers do battle in the Western Australian Supreme Court in a test case on genetically modified crop contamination.

View the original article here: GM canola contamination leads to court showdown