

Scientists identify rare gene mutation that protects against Alzheimer's

After years of studying genes that increase risk for Alzheimer's disease, scientists report the promising discovery of DNA that does the opposite: the first gene variant that protects people against the neurodegenerative disorder.

View the original article here: Scientists identify rare gene mutation that protects against Alzheimer's