

Does the Seralini corn study fiasco mark a turning point in the debate over GM food?

Are anti-biotech campaigners the leftwing version of climate change deniers? The science media are finally confronting the distortions perpetrated by anti-GM advocacy groups and illiberal “progressive” journalists and bloggers. Jon Entine, executive director of the Genetic Literacy Project, reports.

View the original article here: Does the Seralini corn study fiasco mark a turning point in the debate over GM food?