

Claim of first human stem cell trial unravels

image not found or type unknown

Claims by a Japanese scientist to have run a clinical trial in which reprogrammed cardiac muscle cells grown from induced pluripotent stem cells were transplanted into six US patients with severe heart failure were apparently inflated or made up.

View the original article here: Claim of first human stem cell trial unravels