

Top Indian science panel backs GM crops

A top scientific panel of the government has favoured introduction of more genetically modified crops in the country under strict regulatory supervision because of the technology's "transformational potential" in benefiting Indian agriculture.

View the original article here: Top Indian science panel backs GM crops