

Agricultural biotechnology is under attack ... again, says pro-GM supporter

Attacks against agricultural biotechnology have increased noticeably this fall within the United States and around the world. It appears that activists who oppose genetically modified crops are advancing their causes more aggressively than ever before.

View the original article here: Agricultural biotechnology is under attack ... again, says pro-GM supporter