

Papal advisory body says GM food represents provides medical benefits

The president of the Pontifical Academy of Sciences—an advisory body that is not part of the Church's teaching authority—told the Synod of Bishops for the new evangelization that genetically-modified food represents a step forward in evolution.

View the original article here: Papal advisory body says GM food represents provides medical benefits