

Farm workers' interests neglected in Prop. 37 debate

SALINAS – As an organizer with the United Farm Workers, I've grown accustomed to seeing farm workers routinely be excluded or absent from the public discourse happening around issues of food justice. So it came as no surprise when I picked up my voter guide to read the arguments in favor of Proposition 37 and saw that it was boiled down to one issue – my right to know what I put in my body. Fair enough. That sentence alone is enough for me to support the measure. But I'm inclined to go a little further and ask: What would Prop. 37 mean for those who pick our food?

View the original article here: Farm Workers Left Out of Prop.37 Discussion, But Have a Stake