

Sperm stem cells restore male fertility

Men who lose the ability to produce sperm after chemotherapy might one day be able to regain their fertility. That's because, for the first time, infertility has been reversed in a male primate using an injection of stem cells.

View the original article here: Sperm stem cells restore male fertility