

UK: GM food row sparked by DEFRA minister's support

The row about genetically modified (GM) food re-ignited this week after a government minister said there were “real environmental benefits” associated with the technology.

View the original article here: GM food row sparked by DEFRA minister's support