

We'll see human cloning 'within 50 years'

Parents who lose children in accidents may be able to clone "copies" to replace them within 50 years, a British scientist who won this year's Nobel prize for medicine has predicted.

View the original article here: Human cloning 'within 50 years'