

Vigilante “Label It Yourself” activists violate federal law

Prop 37 failed in California, but the Label It Yourself campaign encourages activists to place their own self-printed “warning” labels on genetically engineered foods on supermarket shelves. Such guerrilla labeling tactics violate several federal laws and misinform consumers. The government’s failure to prosecute these vigilantes sends the message that it will look the other way as people commit crimes to achieve their political agendas.

View the original article here: Front Page Felonies: A Pass from Police Agencies Rewards Vigilantism, Victimizes Society