

Namibia: Millers promise to strengthen anti-GMO measures

The following is an excerpt.

Windhoek — Following revelations that maize meal available on Namibian shelves contain percentages of genetically modified organisms (GMOs), one of the leading millers and producers of maize and wheat-based products, Bokomo Foods Namibia, has vowed to exercise extra caution on the products it will roll out next season.

View the original article here: Namibia: Millers Promise to Strengthen Anti-GMO Measures