

The Genetic Code is not a synonym for the Bible Code

The following is an edited excerpt.

Oh, boy. The Intelligent Design creationists are all excited about a new paper that purports to have identified an intelligent signal in the genetic code.

I've read the paper by ShCherbak and Makukov, and by golly, the Discovery Institute flack really has accurately summarized the paper: it does explicitly and clearly claim to have identified evidence of design in the genetic code! That's newsworthy in itself, that the creationists can accurately summarize a scientific paper...as long as the results conform to their ideological expectations.

Unfortunately, what they've so honestly described is good old honest garbage.

Read the full post here: The Genetic Code is not a synonym for the Bible Code