

Why rich Americans should drop their war on GM foods

The following is an edited excerpt.

Upper crust grocery stores like Whole Foods are taking a moral stand against genetically modified meat and vegetables, even though these products could help solve hunger for billions.

Read the full article here: Don't Fear the 'Frankenfish': Why Rich Americans Should Drop Their War on Genetically Modified Foods