

Protests across Ontario against genetically-modified alfalfa

The following is an excerpt.

Farmers and concerned residents took to the streets in a number of Ontario municipalities, as well as across the country, to protest the introduction of genetically-modified alfalfa.

According to the Canadian Biotechnology Action Network (CBAN), which organized the rallies, there are concerns about the impact the genetically-modified (GM) alfalfa could have on existing crops.

View the original article here: Protests across Ontario against genetically-modified alfalfa