

If GM crops provide more food, that's a good thing, right?

The following is an excerpt.

What drives opposition to genetically modified crops? Well, there are a bunch of enduring myths, which Dan Charles at NPR did a nice job of debunking. But I think the reasons mostly come down to unfounded fear (frankenfoods!) and distrust/hatred of multi-national corporations (Monsanto!).

One GMO critic has just revealed a reason I hadn't yet heard...

Read the full post here: If GM Crops Provide More Food, That's a Good Thing, Right?