

5 points in favor of intellectual property for agricultural biotechnology

The following is an excerpt.

CropLife International has identified the top five facts everyone should know about the importance of intellectual property (IP) to agricultural innovation.

Understanding how IP protections can encourage new innovations and drive the growth of agriculture, as well as supporting effective IP rights, will be critical to meeting future food demands:

View the original article here: 5 facts about ag innovation and intellectual property