

Do liberals oppose genetically modified organisms more than conservatives?

The following is an excerpt.

There has been recent talk about GMOs and political orientation recently. Keith Kloor has pointers to the appropriate places. The general impression on all sides seems to be that elite voices against genetically modified organisms are on the Left. To my knowledge this is correct, especially in the United States. But is this true more broadly? We can use the General Social Survey to explore this further.

Read the full story here: Do liberals oppose genetically modified organisms more than conservatives?