

Don't let critics derail GE advantages

The Central Valley is the hotbed of California's agricultural output, producing over $13 billion worth of food products each year, according to the American Farmland Trust. Our ideal soil and favorable weather position us as a commanding agricultural force in the nation. I have been, and remain committed to, fighting for the jobs and farms that prove so vital to our economy. And that's why I'm writing today: to help shine light on government legislation that works because of its positive impact on our community and local economy....

Read the full story here: Don't let critics derail biotech advantages