

Storify: Would shouting stop if GMOs were labeled?

Many people think that labeling GMOs is a simple bit of text. And that if we just would put something on the package the shouting would stop. Mary Mangan, an independent plant scientist, shows the anti-GMO crowd's true goals in their own words: how their goal is elimination of GMOs and not just a simple label. Click next to view each slide, or play to view as slideshow.

Read the full, original article: GMO labels. The purpose is...?