

Why do foodies love organic food? Because it tastes like McDonald's!

Two prankster hosts of the online Dutch show Lifehunters recently went to an organic food convention and proceeded to pretend they were restaurant entrepreneurs serving up the latest in organic fare...but that was after a trip to McDonald's where they stocked up on Chicken McNugget's and other fast-food classics. The reaction by the "expert" taste testers is priceless—providing intriguing insight into the faux and sometimes phony taste advantages of organic foods. As hosts Sacha and Cedrique say, "Let's go"!