

Talking Biotech: Engineering hornless cows; Blueberry origins

This episode of Talking Biotech features Dr. Alison Van Eenennaam from the University of California at Davis. She is a Cooperative Extension Specialist working in genetic improvement of cattle. Van Eenennaam discusses the new project to produce hornless cattle using gene editing technology.

Your questions from Twitter are answered using #talkingbiotech

In Amazing Plant History Dr. Paul Lyrene from the University of Florida talks about the domestication of blueberries and the future of blueberry breeding.

https://geneticliteracyproject.org/wp-content/uploads/2015/06/002\_VanE\_Lyrene2.mp3

To learn more about weekly podcast interviews with Kevin Folta, visit Talking Biotech Podcast.