

Video: Cornell Prof Peter Davies on how to evaluate evidence for and against GMOs

The GLP aggregated and excerpted this video to reflect the diversity of news, opinion and analysis.

Professor Peter Davies, a plant biologist at Cornell University, examines the criteria we should use to evaluate web sites and scientific papers on biotech (GMO) crops. He offers a roadmap for evaluating the veracity of both publications and the arguments of advocates on all sides of the debate.

Read full, original post: Peter Davies – Evaluating evidence on GMO crops: How do we know that?