

Video: Can CRISPR gene editing help solve world's food and farming challenges?

A research team at Cold Spring Harbor Laboratory is developing higher-yielding tomato plants with a gene-editing tool called Crispr-Cas9. Are these products different from traditional GMOs?

Read full, original post: Is Gene Editing the Future of Farming?