

Plant-based 'Impossible Sausage' set to debut

Impossible Foods just announced a new product: pork. And thanks to the new fake pork, there's also sausage.

It's not real pork, of course. The new ground meat substitute is plant-based, just like the fake ground beef that made Impossible famous. In fact, the entire proposition of Impossible Pork is quite similar to that of Impossible Beef.

...

In tandem with its announcing the new ground pork product, Impossible also announced a new line of plant-based sausages appropriately called Impossible Sausage. Burger [King] will use these patties in a trial of non-meat Croissan'wiches at select stores in late January.

Read full, original article: Impossible Now Makes Pork From Plants